

Leif Melin is a Professor of Strategy and Organization and the founding Director of CeFEO, the new Center for Family Enterprise and Ownership at Jönköping International Business School (JIBS). The academic year 2000/2001 he served as Dean and Managing Director of JIBS. His research interests are mainly about strategizing and strategic change, with an empirical focus on family businesses, and especially issues around ownership, strategic development, corporate governance and strategic leadership in family businesses. Another major research area is about strategizing and organizing in continuously growing business firms.

Leif Melin has published widely in international journals, including Strategic Management Journal and Family Business Review, and international book volumes, such as Understanding the Small Family Business and The Family Business Research Handbook (forthcoming). He is currently serving on the editorial board for several international academic journals, such as Organization Studies, Strategic Organization, European Management Review, Journal of World Business, and Long Range Planning.
